

(Feb. 18)

(23) of a natural deposit.

In trench a', the headdress of a grey statuette [drawing]; in b a few blue glazed beads.

(8) Trench A. Clearing along floor east and west.

[DRAWING]

[DRAWING]

At present I can only say that the "upper floor" corresponds to that in Building 100 and represents the last ancient occupation of the site. The lower floor (under the statues) represents the Taharka-Early Aethiopic occupation. The sand between probably accumulated during the abandonment of the site bet. the early and the late Aethiopic (Meroitic) periods.
