

(Jan. 27) excavation. The hard debris under this which we mistook for rock (grey sandstone) proves to be the original filling. We have not yet reached the southern end of the stairway nor revealed any of the steps. It seems about 20 m. long.

Room 102 is nearly finished (top meter of debris only, taken out). The entrance from 1010 is not in the axis. The east and west entrances are in the [XXX?] axis. The N entrance is in the NW corner, leads to a corridor. Six cols. (one missing). There appears to be a similar room on the east of 102.
