

(#4.27)
31

154

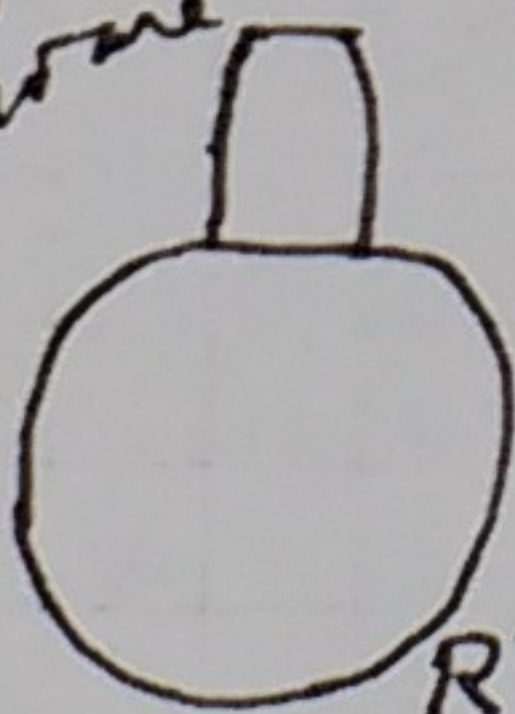

56

through the door into C, breaks through the floor of C and goes on down six or seven meters into the solid rock. He manifestly failed to recognize the ~~the~~ chamber when he found it, - a fault typical of the use of brute force
as a substitute for intelligence in archaeological excavations. He did not clear out Chambers B and A where we found a mass of potshards.

N.B. The examination of the potshards etc is now over and I will return to a discussion of the
pyr. when this is finished.

1164

RBP

R.B.P.

B.W.

Pink Pastos (Greek?)

" " (local?)

R.S.W.

Alt. W. (Kench).

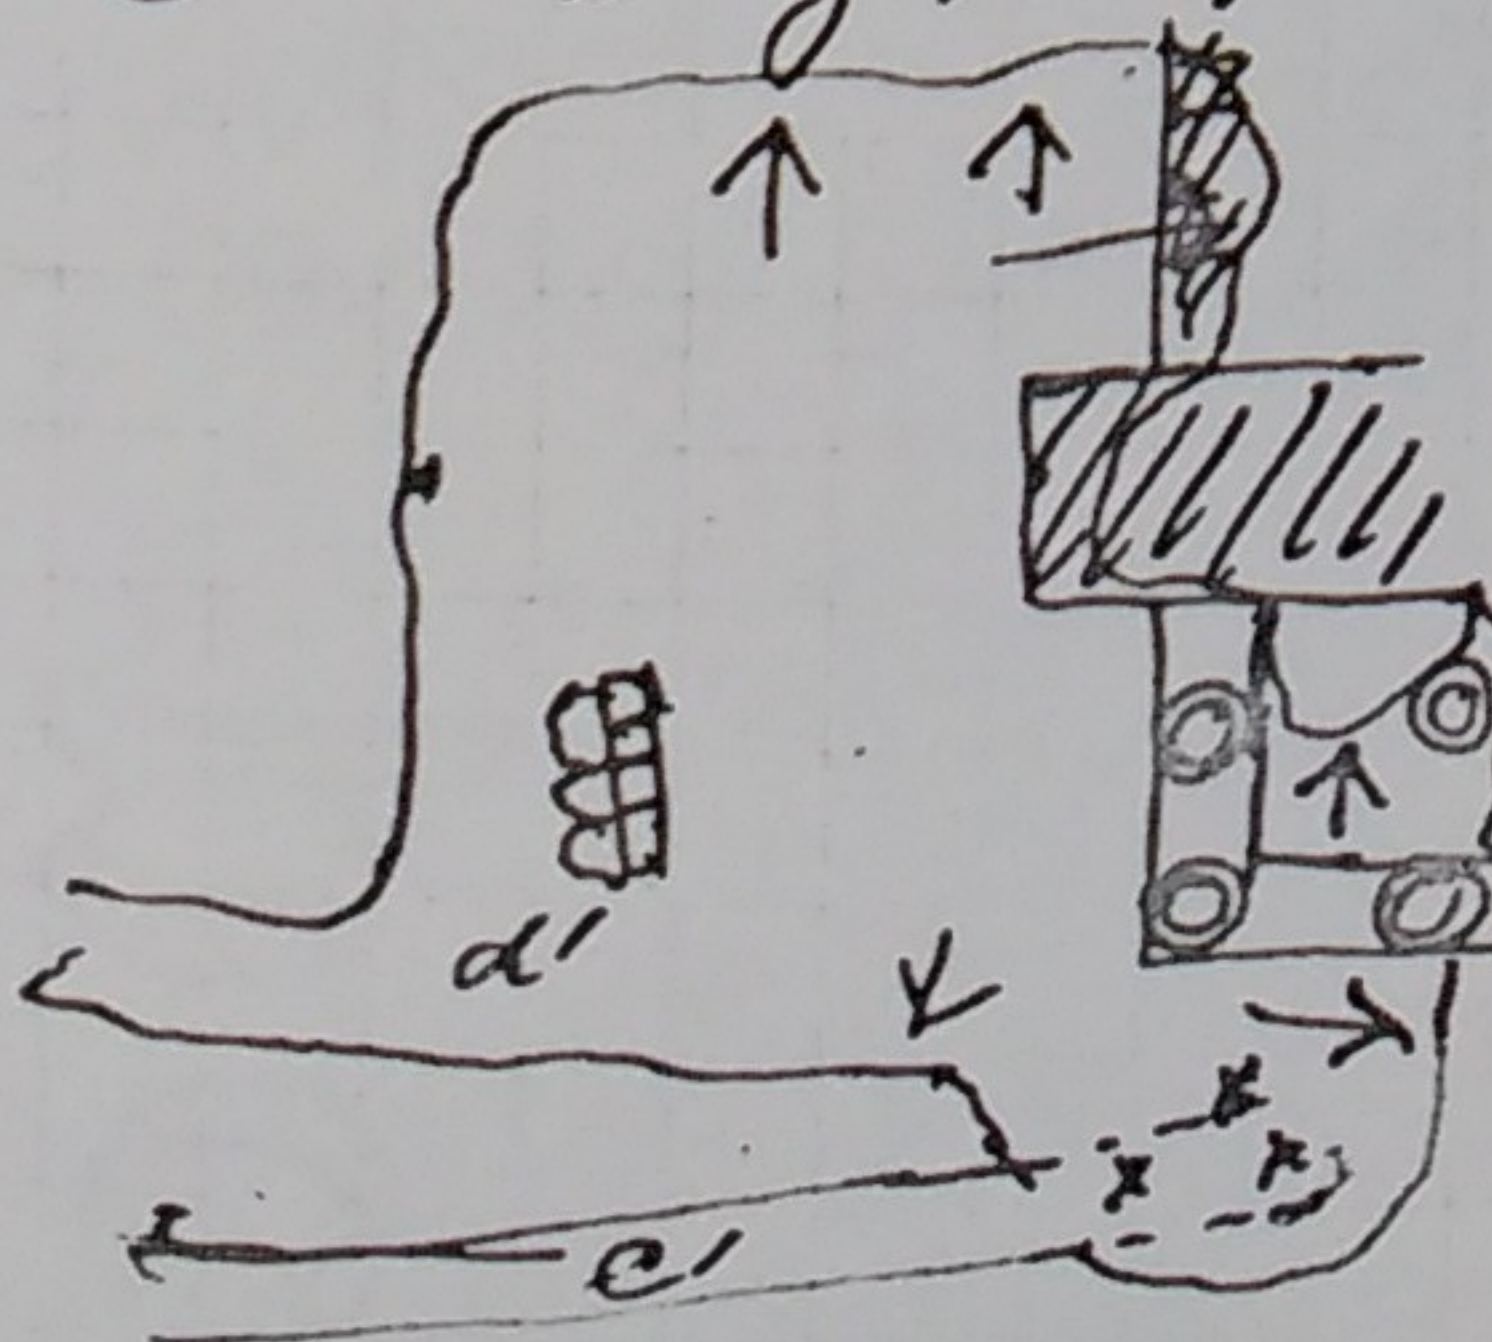

R.B.

R.B.P

R.W.

The corner of a fair. offering tablet found in XI has traces of a narrative inscription.

(2) Bldg 200, trench C' & d'.

Trenches c' and d'
have now been joined up in front of Bld. 200 SW corner and thus work will transfer to Bld. 200

statues excavated by the Bldg
in a hole.

x² x³ fragments of statues
in debris (ca - 1200m).